

Noriko Bag

By: fabricitis

<http://www.burdastyle.com/projects/noriko-bag>

99% of the bag is “recycled”. The materials came all from garage sales and thrift stores except for the thread. The closure works by taking the tassel hanging from the lower button and winding it around the larger button. I enlarged the original pattern for the main part of the bag (not the straps) and added a flap for closure. I also added inside pockets made out of the cuffs of the shirt.

Materials

The outside fabric is made from cotton curtains. The inside fabric is an old dupioni silk shirt. The buttons come from an old dress. I used silk thread to make the tassel closure.

Step 1 — Noriko Bag

Go to Lazy Girl Designs Blog to get the pattern and follow the directions she offers:

http://www.lazygirldesigns.com/blog/wp-content/uploads/2008/12/lazy_girl_designs_noriko_bag.pdf

BurdaStyle

Noriko Bag