This model is sewn with invisible stitches from the inside and from the outside with a soft cushioning inside of the shoe. I design this pattern with drapery detail that is assembled together with a string and finished with two wooden pearls; that way we get a lot of space for moving little fingers. It could be finished also with a bow. The shoes have at the heel a tongue, so it is easy to put them in the little feet. They also have unseen elastic at the heel, so the opening of the shoe is a little bigger. Take time and watch the video, and leave me a comment, thanks.
